Forces of War Watch Hourglass Today Along Chaco Front, Truce Off

Soldiers Await New Zero Hour as Forces of Peace, Assembled in Asuncion, Strive for Paraguayan Consent to Plan to Prolong Armistice.

Buenos Aires, Jan. 4 (AP).—The forces of war watched the hourglass today in the jungle fighting areas of the Chaco Boreal and waited for the new zero hour ending the Bolivian-Paraguayan truce—midnight Saturday.

Forces of peace, represented by the League of Nations' Chaco Commission, were in Asuncion, striving for Paraguayan consent to a plan enabling further prolongation of the armistice.

Paraguayan and Bolivian representatives and members of the League commission who did not go to Asuncion, came here from Montevideo to hasten extension of the agreement if the Paraguayan errand is successful.

Sources close to the belligerents, however, showed growing apprehension that renewal of fighting was unavoidable. The obstacle to the present conversation apparently is the old question of what portion of the Chaco is arbitrable if the combatants take the controversy to the world court at the Hague.

Paraguay is authoritatively represented as unwilling under any circumstances to allow arbitration of the territory alloted to it in the Hayes award of 1879, which Bolivia has not accepted—roughly a portion below the 23rd parallel, of which the river Verde is the northern boundary.

The Associated Press was given to understand that if Bolivia withdraws troops from this zone Paraguay will agree that the World Court may determine possession of the entire remainder of the Chaco, including the Mennonite colonies and some of the more highly developed foreign holdings.

Bolivia, however, according to reliable advices, insists that if it withdraws from the Hayes zone Paraguay must retire to positions occupied four months ago, permitting a neutral commission to administer the area vacated until it has been submitted to arbitration.

This segment, a triangle slightly larger than Delaware, lying along longitude 60 and to the west, contains the late Bolivian stronghold, Fort Munpz. Its seizure was claimed by Bolivia to have occurred after the armistice of December 19 was in effect.

Establishment of this neutral zone is a condition sought by League arbitrators in conversations with President Alaya in Asuncion, the Paraguayan capital.

Paraguayan sources have insisted that such consent is impossible, lest Paraguay find herself finally arbitrating only this comparatively insignificant corner of the Chaco instead of the more developed region which it has been waging war to retain.

Weather Slightly Warmer; Snow Due

Weather Conditions Have Been Such Since the First of the Year That Sidewalks in Many Places are a Glare of Ice—Householders Should Sand Them Down.

The police complaints has received a number of complaints in regard to the glare of ice that covers many of the sidewalks in the city, due to the warm weather earlier in the week which was followed by freezing temperatures. Several people have fallen on sidewalks and injured themselves. A request is being made that householders sand or throw ashes on slippery walks so that no more accidents may be reported.

The temperature moderated here during the night, the lowest point recorded by The Freeman thermometer during the night was 12 degrees above. At 11 o'clock this morning the thermometer recorded 19 degrees above and snow flurries were in progress here.

Tuesday night thermometers recorded as low as 5 degrees above zero and the temperature stayed close to the zero mark all day on Wednesday.

WILLIAMS HELD FOR ACTION OF GRAND JURY ON CHARGES.

Leslie Williams, 26, of Rifton, was committed to the Ulster county jail Wednesday to await the action of the grand jury, following an arraignment before Justice I. C. Barnes of New Paltz on a charge of burglary in the third degree.

Williams was arrested by Trooper Klein and is accused of having broken into the Pioneer Youth Camp at Rifton and taking a number of articles, including silverware, blankets, sheets, etc.

Veteran Legislative Correspondent Now In Political Spotlight

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP).—Charles H. Armitage, veteran legislative correspondent who has "covered" political activities in New York state for nearly a quarter of a century, is in the political spotlight himself today—a central figure in the bitter fight between State Chairman W. Kingsland Macy and the Old Guard Republicans over the Assembly clerkship.

The modest, genial Buffalo Evening News correspondent was thrust into the heated argument yesterday as a Macy candidate in a surprise move by Assemblyman Arthur Swartz of Erie county.

Chairman Macy succeeded in throwing 18 votes to Armitage, enough to kill the efforts of Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies and old Assembly leaders to re-elect Fred W. Hammond and force abandonment until today of the attempt to settle the issue.

Armitage has been sitting in the Senate and Assembly chambers since 1908 writing of the many battles, just as he was yesterday when his name was put forth as a candidate for the clerkship. He left his typewriter for four years, 1918-21, to be secretary to Mayor George S. Buck of Buffalo, and then returned to his "first love."

He began his newspaper career in Elmira, his native city, as a member of the staff of the Elmira Gazette, transferring his activities several years later to the Buffalo Commercial. In 1905 he went to the Buffalo News, with which newspaper he has been affiliated since.

Most of his service with the Buffalo News has been as political writer, and as such he has been on Capitol Hill for many years. He is next only to George M. Janvrin and Edward C. Cuyler in years of service as a correspondent.

Last year he was tendered a testimonial dinner by the correspondent and lauded by Governor Herbert H. Lehman. He was president of the Legislative Correspondents Association in 1915, is at present a member of the board of directors and chairman of the invitation committee of the association's annual dinner.

He is married and has a daughter, Mrs. R. Douglas Campbell of Buffalo.

Up-To-Date Manager Sees Better Business

Joseph Kramer Says Sale This Year Indicates More People are Buying —Reports Successful First Day.

That business conditions in Kingston are decidedly on the up-grade was evidenced in the annual sale of the Up-To-Date Company on Wall street in the opening of their Clearance Sale yesterday morning.

"The volume of business done on the first day of the sale was far greater than the opening day of last year's sale", said Joseph Kramer, manager of the local store, this morning. "It is encouraging to see the response that our annual sale created this year, and if the first day's business is any indication of what is to come, our sale this year will be one of the best ever conducted by our store".

Mr. Kramer was of the opinion that people are in a buying mood this year, much more so than last, and if they are convinced that a shop is advertising real values, they will take advantage of them.

Seeley Resigns As Chairman of Local Compliance Board

Rev. Dr. Seeley Finds He Is Unable To Continue As Member of Board Due To Other Affairs—Board Was First To Last Only Six Weeks—Canfield Elected Chairman.

The Rev. Dr. Frank B. Seeley has resigned as chairman of the Ulster County Compliance Board of the National Recovery Administration. When the Compliance Boards were first organized in September it was intended they would function only six weeks but it is now expected that they will continue until the federal and state governments take over the work through their labor departments. The local compliance board met last night and accepted the resignation with regret. Palmer Canfield, who has been the attorney and secretary for the board, was elected chairman but will continue also as its attorney. The other members of the board are Mrs. George F. Rice, Clarence S. Rowland, Ernest LeFevre, Clifford T. Bennett, Frank J. Richardson and Edward P. Ward. Dr. Seeley's letter of resignation is as follows:

January 1, 1934.

The Hon. Palmer Canfield,
Secretary of Local Compliance Board,
Kingston, N. Y.

My dear Mr. Canfield:

I herewith tender my resignation as Chairman of the local Compliance Board of the NRA.

When I consented to serve as such, it was with the understanding that the work would not last to exceed six weeks. The work is so vital in making effectual the objectives of the National Recovery Act, the chairman should be able accurately and fairly to judge and wisely to interpret the rules and intent of the various codes. I have not the time at my disposal to adaquately inform myself. You should have such a chairman.

I wish to take this opportunity to express by great satisfaction at the whole-hearted support given to the National Recovery Act by the rank and file of the business men of the city and county.

Appreciating the courtesy of the members of the board and with every good wish for your continued harmonious service.

Very respectfully,
F. B. SEELEY.

Old Armory To Be Ready February 15

Hugh McCullough, who is in charge of the work of reconstructing the old armory as a CWA project stated this morning that he expected that the work would be completed and the building ready by February 15. There are a number of changes being made to the building, and an addition is being erected in the rear which will house a large stage and dressing rooms.

FARM BUREAU MANAGER TO SPEAK OVER RADIO

Albert Kurdt, manager of the Ulster County Farm Bureau, will speak over radio station WGY Tuesday, January 9, at 12:40, during the noon Farm Forum. His subject will be, "Snowballs and Eggs," and will be of special interest to all poultrymen who are making a business of keeping poultry. All poultrymen in the market for baby chicks this spring will also find the subject of interest to them.

Campaign Renewed to Legalize Horse Race Wagering in New York

Bill to Permit Pari-Mutuel Betting Introduced Yesterday — Belief Prevalent on Capitol Hill That This Year Will see Its Enactment.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP).—Renewal of the drive for legislation legalizing horse race wagering in New York state was already launched today with the 1934 legislature only one day old.

With turf leaders emphasizing that the future of state racing depends upon immediate consideration of relief which will circumvent the existing ban against wagering, the legislators are wasting no time in setting the machinery in motion.

A bill which would permit pari-mutuel betting, giving associations a "cut" in all money bet at tracks, and proposing levying of an eight per cent tax on the gross operating revenues of state tracks was introduced yesterday by Senator James Crawford and Assemblyman William Breitenbach, both Brooklyn Democrats.

The measure, strongly backed by the Jockey Club, is identical to the one which was introduced last year, passed in the assembly and failed in the senate chiefly because it never came out of committee.

Belief is prevalent on Capitol Hill that this year will see its enactment.

"The future of racing depends upon the immediate consideration of this session of the legislature," said Assemblyman Brietenbach, "and approval of this bill which offers the proper relief for the tracks of the state.

"Horse racing in the state is not considered the sport of kings, but rather a gigantic industry doing a greater volume of business than many industrial plants, factories or department stores. Thousands of men and women, directly dependent for their livelihood upon the horse racing industry, will be added to our millions of unemployed if racing is driven from our state to neighboring states which offer more favorable conditions."

Eleven New Jersey counties last November voted favorably on racing, stirring talk of the possibility of transferring New York state's racing there if the New York legislature again fails to legalize betting.

Pari-mutuel betting was adopted in eight states last year with a yield of several million dollars in revenue.

New York state tracks, unable to take a "cut" in the present "oral" system revenue, have abandoned stakes and reduced purses. Belmont, with a loss of $200,000 last year, postponed the closing dates of three of its richest stakes pending action by the legislature.

Assembly Clerk Vote Brings No Election Today on Second Ballot

Adjournemnt Taken Until Noon Tomorrow After Five Fail to Get Required Majority — Hammond's Strength Same as Wednesday.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP).—The Assembly of the New York legislature adjourned until noon tomorrow after none of the five candidates for the clerkship received the required majority on the second ballot. The vote was identical with the previous count.

The vote was as follows:

Fred W. Hammond	66
Louis A. Cuvillier	62
Charles F. Close	16
Ward H. Arburry	3
Clement Curry	1

The vote left Hammond's strength the same as on yesterday's ballot. He lost a Republican but picked up a Democrat. Emerson D. Fite, Poughkeepsie, switched in his vote from Hammond to Close, but Assemblyman James Byrnes, New York city Democrat, voted for Hammond.

TWO CASES BEFORE JUDGE CULLOTON IN COURT HERE

Charles Glenna, a negro of 24 Catherine street, was arrested Wednesday night on a charge of public intoxication on Stephan street. This morning in police court Judge Culloton imposed a fine of $5 which was paid. John Ostrander of 122 Chambers street was arrested Wednesday night by his father-in-law, John Sullivan, who claimed that his son-in-law had struck him. Mr. Sullivan told Judge Culloton this morning that he wanted his son-in-law and his wife to vacate the house, and Judge Culloton suspended the serving of a sentence of 20 days in jail, provided that the Ostranders moved out of the Sullivan house by January 15.

NATIONAL BANKS ANNUAL MEETINGS

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the various national banks of the city will be held on January 9 at the banking houses for the purpose of electing directors for the ensuing year. The annual meetings of the First National Bank of Rondout, the Rondout National Bank of Kingston, N. Y., and the State of New York National Bank will be held from 11 o'clock until noon while the meeting of the National Ulster County Bank of Kingston will be held from 4 until 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Roosevelt Tells Congress To Expect Budget Deficit Amounting To Nine Billion Dollars

President's Estimates Of Where Money Is Going This Fiscal Year

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP).—President Roosevelt's estimates of where the money is going in this fiscal year, ending June 30, and next:

EXPENDITURES	1934	1935
General:
Departmental	$2,899,116,200	$3,202,074,000
Legislative	17,718,500	18,734,500
Independent Offices	*16,857,967	542,466,600
Total	$3,533,691,767	$3,763,276,000
Less Debt Retirement	488,171,500	525,763,800
Total General	$3,045,520,267	$3,237,512,200
Emergency:
Public Works	$1,677,190,800	$1,098,881,100
Agricultural Adjustment	103,250,000	5,000,000
Farm Credit	40,000,000
Conservation Corps	341,705,600	65,190,000
Reconstruction Corporation	3,969,740,300	*480,436,500
Tennessee Valley	19,000,000	31,000,000
Land Banks	52,350,000	12,650,000
Deposit Insurance	150,000,000
NRA	4,250,000
Total Emergency	$6,357,486,700	$723,286,500
Total All Expenditures Less Debt Retirement	$9,403,006,967	$3,960,798,700

*This RFC figure is deducted since it represents an excess of repayment on loans above new loans. The RFC figure is contingent on extension of the corporation's authority.

The above tables do not include President Roosevelt's extra-budget requests for $1,166,000,000 in 1934 and $2,000,000,000 in 1935.

Speed Record Broken And Tradition Upset

Congress Swings Into Action Without Even Waiting For The Reading of The President's Budget Message.

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP).—Congress today broke speed records and upset tradition in true Rooseveltian style, swinging into legislative work on the second day of the session without even waiting for the reading of the President's budget message.

Long before the tensely awaited budget document was received, committee on both sides of the capitol set to work as though determined to live up to the predictions of leaders for a short, snappy session ending by May.

Both Senate and House hummed with reactions to the chief executive's personally delivered, general outline yesterday of a broadened new deal. The big Democratic majority remained warm in praise. In some Republican quarters complaint persisted that Mr. Roosevelt had not given details of "where we are going from here."

Congressional leaders looked forward to a series of special presidential messages, filling in yesterday's outline. Word reached the Capitol that Mr. Roosevelt had before him recommendations from his executive commercial policy committee for a widely different tariff policy.

The memorandum was reported to suggest that he request power to fix tariffs, negotiate reciprocal trade treaties and classify industries according to their economic importance, with the least important designated for possible tariff reductions.

Meanwhile the House prepared to plunge directly into debate on the new half-billion dollar liquor tax bill immediately after receiving the budget message. Action is expected by the week-end. The Senate made the budget message its chief point of business.

As further evidence of Congressional speed, the Senate finance committee met to consider the nomination of Henry Morgenthau, Jr., as secretary of the treasury, even before it was formally submitted by the President.

Two Senate investigating committees also were in action, the banking committee studying the Detroit bank troubles, and the special judiciary subcommittee investigating the administration of bankruptcies.

On the House side, the silver bloc was called into session to try to formulate a legislative program on which its various factions could unite. Already 166 members of the House were pledged for remonetization of silver through a petition signed last session.

Chairman Jones (D., Tex.) also called the House agriculture committee to consider his bill to make livestock a basic commodity under the agricultural adjustment law.

Despite the obvious desire of leaders on both sides for quick action on administration measures, however, the Senate was in somewhat of a stalemate. It had little to do except wait for the House, the action of its own committees, and possibly a few nominations.

The two first bills on the Senate program—liquor taxation and a local liquor law for the District of Columbia—will be acted on by the House first. The Senate is geared to give them swift consideration when they are sent over, however.

Taken to Elmira.

Louis Stickler, 17, of Olive Bridge, sentenced at the recent term of court by Judge Loughran to a term in Elmira Reformatory, was taken to that institution today by an officer from Elmira. He was found guilty of carrying a dangerous weapon.

Main Figures From The Budget Message

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP).—Main figures from President Roosevelt's budget message:

The government will spend $10,569,000,000 in the year ending next June 30, increasing the public debt by $7,309,000,000 to an all time high of $29,847,000,000.

The president expects this public debt total will be boosted to $31,834,000,000 by June 30, 1935.

Net outlays in the fiscal year 1935 which begins next July 1, are estimated at $5,960,000,000 after deducting $480,436,000 of Reconstruction Corporation repayments.

The government will borrow $10,000,000,000 in the next six months—$6,000,000,000 of new money and $4,000,000,000 to retire maturing obligations.

Exclusive of debt retirement, general expenditures in both 1934 and 1935 will fall within estimated receipts. But including emergency recovery costs, this fiscal year's deficit will be $7,309,000,000 and next year's $1,936,000,000.

By the end of 1935, the government expects to have assets pledged against loans with a book value of $5,461,969,000. Repayments would go to debt reduction.

Revenue for 1934 is estimated at $3,259,000,000 and for 1935 at $3,974,000,000, but these figures do not include a possible $200,000,000 annually from liquor taxes and income tax law tightening.

The President will ask $1,166,000,000 for "necessary" expenditures in 1934 which were not included in the budget. This was over and above regular emergency estimates. He estimated $2,000,000,000 will be needed for relief in 1935.

Stockholders Urged To Attend Meeting

Of National Ulster County Bank of Kingston on January 9—B. C. Van Ingen Reports Progress With "Slow Securities."

Superintendent of Schools B. C. VanIngen, one of the three trustees in charge of the task of liquidating the "slow" securities of the old National Ulster County Bank, is urging all stockholders of the new National Ulster County Bank of Kingston to attend the annual meeting to be held at the bank building on January 9, from 4 to 5 p. m.

Mr. Van Ingen calls attention to the fact that at the time of the reorganization and re-opening of the bank in November, approximately two-thirds of the old depositors became stockholders in the new bank and therefore should be interested in this first annual meeting of all the stockholders. He adds that there are in round numbers about 2,500 stockholders in the new bank.

For the "slow securities" trustees Mr. VanIngen says that they are working eagerly and earnestly for the welfare of all those who have waived 25 per cent of their deposits, as required by the federal banking department and they are pleased to be able to report that they have so far made considerable progress in their work.

Sir Baden-Powell Ill

London, Jan. 4 (AP).—Lord Baden-Powell, 77, founder of the Boy Scout movement, underwent an internal operation in a hospital today. Attendants said his condition was satisfactory but that it would be necessary for him to remain in the hospital six weeks.

Recovery Campaign Is Responsible for Huge Debt, Says President

Would Clamp Down Lid in 1936 to Put Government on Pay-as-You-Go Policy—What President Asks For in His Message.

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP).—President Roosevelt frankly reported to Congress today a prospective nine billion dollar recovery campaign deficit for the next two years and asked that the lid be clamped down to put the government on a pay-as-you-go basis by 1936.

In his message transmitting the budget, he estimated expenditures chargeable entirely to the recovery effort of almost $7,500,000,000 for this fiscal year ending June 30.

He asked for a two billion dollar war chest to continue and taper off this drive in the following year.

All of this, he said, involves government borrowing of ten billion dollars during the next six months, but he expressed no doubt of meeting this problem.

The nine billion deficit, which would swell the public debt to the all-time high of $36,834,000,000, does not take into account prospective new taxes from liquor revenue and plugging of income tax loopholes. There was no recommendation for new taxes.

The executive did recommend restoration of one-third of the 15 per cent cut in pay for Federal employes, effective July 1, and favored continuation of the three cent non-local mail rate.

As in his personal address in the house chamber yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt spoke optimistically of the business outlook.

"Powerful forces for recovery exist," he said. "It is by laying a foundation of confidence in the present and faith in the future that the upturn which we have so far seen will become cumulative.

"The cornerstone of this foundation is the good credit of the government.

"If we maintain the course I have outlined, we can confidently look forward to cumulative beneficial forces represented by increased volume of business, more general profit, greater employment, a diminution of relief expenditures, larger governmental receipts and repayments, and greater human happiness."

It had been pointed out by him earlier in a supplemental talk with newspapermen that the more than ten billion dollars to be spent this fiscal year is not up to the limit authorized by Congress.

"The results of expenditures already made," his message read, "show themselves in concrete form in better prices for farm commodities, in renewed business activity, in increased employment, in reopening of and restored confidence in banks, and in well-organized relief."

The prospective seven billion dollar deficit for this year includes $1,166,000,000 additional to be asked from Congress for continuing until summer the vast Civil Works Administration and financing the home loan bank system.

Mr. Roosevelt told newspapermen he would just as soon have the two billion dollar recovery fund he has asked for next year in a lump sum. If Congress prefers to itemize it, he does want authority to switch funds from one item to another.

His ideas for use of this two billion dollars next year are, roughly, $500,000,000 to supplement for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; $300,000,000 to continue another year the Civilian Conservation Corps; and $500,000,000 to $800,000,000 for unemployment relief.

"It is clear," said the President, "that the necessity for relief and recovery will still be with us during the year 1934-35. Additional relief funds will be necessary.

"Further needs of the country prohibit the abrupt termination of the recovery program.

"No person can on this date definitely predict the total amount that will be needed, nor the itemizing of such an amount.

"It is my best judgment at this time that a total appropriation of not to exceed two billion dollars will, with the expenditures still to be made next year out of existing appropriations, be sufficient."

The huge Reconstruction Corporation, called upon to finance much of the business and banking structure of the nation, is charged with almost $4,000,000,000 of the $7,000,000,000 deficit for this year.

This money is in loans. A credit of $460,000,000 in repayments is counted upon for next year. The President hinted to newspapermen possible but unforeseen loans to business next year.

The public works administration, charged with $1,677,190,800 of the "emergency" expenditures for this year. Another $1,069,553,100 of the $3,200,000,000 fund is expected to be spent next year.

Civilian Conservation Work, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the Agriculture Adjustment Administration accounted for most of the remainder of the emergency outlay for this year.

Next year's emergency budget al-

LOVE AFFAIRS OF CUBAN COUNT STIR NEW YORK SOCIETY

Involved in Suits for Divorce, Alienation, Desertion and Bigamy.

New York—Cuba's glamorous answer to an American maiden's prayer, Count Augusto Miguel Jose Maria Abalo Bartlett Betancourt y Zaldivar, who, it is said, faintly resembles Ronald Colman, is no longer the beau brummel of Park avenue. At the moment he is involved in a divorce suit, a suit for alienation of affections, and charges of desertion and bigamy.

This swashbuckling descendant of Spanish royalty, in three brief years of exile from his Spanish estates, captured two New York society beauties, engineered a Cuban revolution, swallowed poison after being thrown into jail for deserting one woman at the moment he was about to sail on a honeymoon with another and, finally, sailed for his homeland, where he has hopes of becoming Cuba's secretary of state.

Prize of Social Season.

Count De Zaldivar landed here in 1930 after his properties in Cuba had been seized by the Machado regime. Titled, wealthy, and handsome, he was the prize of that social season. He was soon seen frequenting night clubs with daughters of society clinging to his arms. Then, last April, he bestowed his title and name on one of his fair companions. At that time, according to the divorce suit she filed the other day, he married Carolyn Morgenstern, using the name Augustin Bartlett.

"He constantly dangled before my eyes the title of countess of Zaldivar," said Mrs. Bartlett in her complaint. "He painted rosy pictures of a future in Cuba surrounded by wealth, comfort, luxury, and honor when his estates were restored. He was planning the revolution which unseated President Machado. Then, when the revolt turned out a success and he once more possessed his property, worth $3,000,000, his interest in me began to wane. We separated June 11."

Transfers Affections.

Then, Mrs. Bartlett said, she discovered that her husband had transferred his affections to Doris Smadbeck, socially prominent daughter of Dr. Warren Smadbeck, millionaire real estate operator.

"On September 2 my husband and this woman entered into a bigamous marriage at Rye, N. Y.," she said. Later she engineered a raid on the newly married couple in the Manhattan Towers hotel, and subsequently caused the arrest of her husband as he was about to sail to Cuba with his bride. The count swallowed poison on being taken to Allmony jail, but was revived. He was released on bail and sailed for Cuba alone.

Meanwhile Mrs. Bartlett filed another suit, charging alienation of affections, against Doris Smadbeck Bartlett, who jilted a West Point cadet in order to marry the count. Doris has filed a suit for annulment of her marriage.

Sheriff "Pretty Nice"; Prisoner Spurns Pardon

Cleveland.—O. Russell McIlwain of Port Huron, Mich., in jail here for allegedly passing a worthless check, rejected a chance to go free because he liked the comforts of the Cuyahoga county jail.

Judge S. H. Silbert told him that because of his good record he could go free, but McIlwain said, "Sheriff John Sulzmann has been pretty nice to me. He put me to work cleaning out his office and I'd like to finish the job if it's all the same to you."

It was all the same to his honor and McIlwain stayed at the jail.

Gives Only Life Belt in Canoe to Their Dog

Portland, Ore.—When a dog saves a child its news, but when a child saves a dog its just another one of "those things." Recently a canoe with two boys and dog upset on the Willamette river near here. One of the boys grabbed a life preserver, the only one in the boat, tied it around the dog and let it drift until the harbor patrol picked it up. In the meantime the lads set out on the overturned canoe, which was finally picked up by a passing motor launch.

Falls Into Barrel of Molasses While Drunk

Milwaukee.—When police arrested Theodore Tieman, twenty-three, in a bakery warehouse, they had to scrape him before they took him to headquarters. He had fallen into a barrel of molasses, tipped it over, and then rolled into the contents of a barrel of flour and a barrel of sugar. When finally captured, he was sitting in a tub of sugar water. Tieman, whom exasperated police dubbed "the human lollypop," was fined $5 on charges of drunkenness.

Jailer Jailed

Cushing, Okla.—The tables turned on Howard Baldwin, former Payne county jailer. Baldwin is serving a 60-day sentence in the jail he recently managed. He was convicted of killing a deer out of season.

Milk Wagons Quieted

Boston.—While clinging to old-fashioned horse-drawn wagons, a local dairy has them equipped with pneumatic automobile tires to avoid noise during early-morning deliveries.

Dollar First Used in Bohemia

Contrary to popular beliefs, the dollar did not originate in America. In fact, the first coin that ultimately became the dollar was minted in Bohemia and was known as the Joachimstaler. This was a shortened to "taler" and finally became the dollar.

Rotarians Hear About the Far East

The Rev. James Armstrong Relates Tales Gleaned While Studying at the American Institute in Syria.

The Rev. James Armstrong, attired in the complete regalia of an Arabian gentleman, with its white headpiece, its silken vestment, colorful scarf, voluminous pants and red slippers, spoke to the members and guests at the Rotary luncheon yesterday noon in the Governor Clinton, bringing with him tales of the far east that were gleaned through three years' study and travel while at the American Institute in Syria. Stories of desert hospitality, interesting notations on the customs and mannerisms of an ancient race were all brought to the audience during the course of the Rev. Mr. Armstrong's talk.

Hospitality, according to the speaker, is a thing of unparalled importance in the east. The host, whether he lives in castle or tent, must turn his dwelling over to friends when they arrive for a visit. The guest is the owner while there, the host plays the role of gracious servant. Once a guest has taken the food of the host, be he friend or enemy, his safety is assured while at the host's dwelling, and safe passage is accorded him when he departs.

The speaker stated that it was while in a region south of Damascus that eastern hospitality was brought forcibly to his attention. In this part of the country, a black, volcanic land, was the palace of a prince. This palace was made of limestone, and its contrast against the solid black terrane made it all the more striking. Here Mr. Armstrong came as a guest, and the first function of the host was to offer coffee. Due to the lack of firewood, the coffee, like all other kinds of food, was cooked over a fire made of cow dung. There were several other guests present, all hooded and silent. The coffee was sipped by one, then passed to the next person, until it had gone completely around the table. The drink was in a small cup without handles, and it kept going around the table time and time again. Because of its strength, even a small sip was stimulating, stated the speaker.

The real dinner that day was served at sundown. Without benefit of knives or forks, a delicious meal was served that lasted for a long period of time. The speaker also said that he had been to meals at other houses where the host would take a chicken, take a leg in each hand, tear it apart, rip off the breast with his fingernails and pass the meat to the guests.

Following the luncheon, City Judge Bernard Culloton, Henry South, Washington, D. C., and N. H. Diamond of Poughkeepsie were introduced as guests of the club. The Rev. Ned Brown, formerly a Rotarian of Catskill, was welcomed into the club as a new member by Arthur Connelly.

Tells Congress To Expect Budget Deficit

lots an additional $31,000,000 for the Tennessee valley authority; $65,190,000 for emergency conservation work; $12,650,000 for Federal Land Banks; and $5,000,000 for the agriculture adjustment administration. The President's message stated that if the RFC loaning authority is extended beyond next June 30, "it is contemplated that any additional loans by it would thereafter be taken from the new and additional recovery fund hereinafter referred to."

The President announced the issuance of executive orders extending the authority of director of the budget—Lewis Douglas—over all extraordinary expenditures hereafter, and also the audit authority of the comptroller general over these items.

In his message, he noted that the budget for the new year—the first he has submitted to Congress—shows a reduction of $684,913,167 in the regular ordinary expenditures over the budget submitted a year ago by the outgoing administration.

Thirty Women to Be Given Work Sewing

Clothing Bureau to be Opened This Week on Third Floor of Building Occupied by Local CWA on Pine Grove Avenue—Quota of Workers Nearly Filled.

A project that has been approved by the CWA and which will furnish employment to 30 women is the clothing bureau which will be opened this week on the third floor in the building now occupied by the local CWA on Pine Grove avenue. The bureau will be in charge of Frank C. Sittman, who had charge of the bureau during the days of the emergency work relief with headquarters in the old armory.

A number of sewing machines are needed for the bureau and anyone desiring to donate the use of a machine is asked to get in touch with Miss Mary Rott at the home relief office in the city hall.

With the placing of 30 women at work the local CWA quota of 1,200 will be practically filled.

While the local CWA has made efforts to have the quota of 1,200 increased by another 500, their efforts have so far not proven successful.

Work on all local CWA projects is progressing, although work was held up by the subzero weather the latter part of December.

Dr. Wynekoop Trial Continuation Certain

Chicago, Jan. 4 (AP)—With the trial of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, charged with the murder of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Rheta Wynekoop, certain of being continued when it is called in court today, attorneys for the prosecution were prepared to resist a motion of the defense to impound all articles taken from the Wynekoop residence.

Notice is served on the state's attorney yesterday that Attorneys W. W. Smith and Frank J. Tyrrell, representing the 64-year-old woman physician, would today ask Judge Joseph B. David to impound the articles.

The defense was told yesterday by Judge David to be ready for trial a week from today.

Those persons who buy a ticket for the lecture by Mrs. Payne will automatically be the guests of the Young Married Women's Club for the two succeeding lectures. Tickets for the Payne lecture may be purchased now.

ManJustWantedaBoy, So He Helped Himself

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 4 (AP).—A father's desire to have a boy to take the place of his own son, who died in a motor car accident, was given today as the reason why 11-year-old Bobby Walsh was taken from an orphanage.

"I wanted a boy and just went out and got him," the police quoted George W. McDonald, 37, of Omaha, as saying after he and the boy had been found in a rooming house after an extensive search which began with Bobby's disappearance from the orphanage last Tuesday. Bobby was returned to the orphanage, none the worse for his experience.

"Your Mother Is Sick" Plea for Boy to Return

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP).—"Sonny Johnson, come home at once. Your mother is sick. We have had to have the doctor for her."

This plea was made today by H. Douglas Johnson, Syracuse Herald State editor, in the hope that his 14-year-old missing boy may read it. The boy left his home here on Tuesday.

"Go to the nearest newspaper office and tell them who you are. They will telegraph me and I will send you train fare home. We understand all about it."

Aldermen To Act Friday on Budget

ROBBERY EPIDEMIC IN SOUTHERN ULSTER

An epidemic of gas station robberies appears to have broken out in the southern part of the county. Three robberies were reported to Sergeant Lockhart of the state troopers this morning.

At the Socony station, Marlborough, the thieves got nine batteries and a tire. Two of the batteries were large truck batteries, worth around $35 each. A radio and accessories were taken from the Alsdorf station at Ireland Corners. The other station visited was that located on the Ireland Corners-Wallkill road.

Sergeant Lockhart and Troopers Kline and Baker are making an investigation.

Temple Emanuel is to be favored by a visit from the Rev. Dr. Sidney E. Goldstein, who will occupy the pulpit of the Temple on Friday evening, January 12. Dr. Goldstein is Professor of Social Service in the Jewish Institute of Religion, associate of Dr. Stephen S. Wise of the Free Synagogue, and vitally concerned with all matters of Social Service. He is one of the leading figures in the country and has been given recognition for his splendid work in the War Resisters League and the National Committee on Unemployment. He will preach on the theme, "The Hour of Trial—Can We Avoid Catastrophe?" His message is important to both Jews and Gentiles.

Married Men Live Longer

Married men can console themselves with the fact that their chances for a long life are better than their single brothers. Figures from the census bureau show that the death rate in married men between the ages of thirty-five and forty-five is but half that of bachelors. Between the ages of twenty-five and sixty-five it is but two-thirds that of the single men.

SAVE WASHINGTON'S FIRST BATTLEFIELD

Patriotic Society Preserves Historic Scene.

Washington.—Deep in the forests of Laurel Ridge, a mountain of southwestern Pennsylvania, a young Virginia lieutenant-colonel and his troops, and a young French ensign and his patrol, exchanged the first volley in a war that changed the map of the world to almost as great an extent as the shots fired at Sarajevo, Servia, in 1914.

The Virginia lieutenant-colonel was George Washington, and the Frenchman, Coulon de Jumonville. The latter was killed in this, the first engagement of the French and Indian war, known abroad later as the Seven Years' war.

Recently title to four and a half acres of land where the battle took place was obtained by a Pennsylvania patriotic organization, which will preserve the ground and Jumonville's grave as a historic monument.

Begin Fort Duquesne.

In a communication to the National Geographic society Dr. William Joseph Showalter describes this earliest of all Washington's military campaigns, and the first conflict at arms between the French and the English for the possession of the Mississippi valley.

"Only ten weeks after Washington's first scouting trip into the Ohio valley region, during the winter of 1753-54, he was again headed for the district between the present cities of Cumberland and Pittsburgh," Doctor Showalter writes. "The French had occupied the forks of the Ohio and were engaged in building a fort (Fort Duquesne) there, in the identical spot he had observed several months before.

"Washington undertook to build a road from what is now Mount Braddock south of Connellsville, to Brownsville, on the Monongahela, and to widen the trail between Cumberland and Mount Braddock.

"He also explored the Youghiogheny for about thirty miles, in the hope of finding a waterway open down the river to the forks of the Ohio. But the Chiopyle falls turned him back. He then concentrated his men at the Great Meadows to erect a fort there. Col. Joshua Fry, the commander of the regiment, having died of a fall from his horse on May 31, Washington assumed command.

"Things happened on this trip. The Indians who wanted to be loyal were alarmed at the weakness of the English and at the strength of the French. Jumonville leading a small party of French troops, was discovered trying to ambush the Virginia soldiers.

Washington Leads Attack.

"With the support of the Seneca Indian chief, Half-King, Washington attacked this force on top of Laurel Ridge, to the west of the Great Meadows. Here Jumonville was killed. The French afterward asserted he was carrying a message to the Virginia troops and not acting in a military capacity; which claim Washington, with unusual vigor, denounced.

"There followed now war councils, Indian powwows, wampum exchanges, and finally news of the approach of a strong French force. It seemed wise to retreat to the Great Meadows and occupy Fort Necessity.

"Supplies failed to arrive, and when the French opened fire it was plain that surrender was inevitable. The defense lasted until about eight o'clock in the evening, the attack having begun an hour before noon. Then a parley was held, and Washington was given his choice of surrendering as a prisoner of war, or marching out with flags flying and drums beating but leaving his artillery to be destroyed.

"As one stands by the old brick tavern near Farmington, on the Old National Trail east of Laurel Ridge, and looks down by the creek where the reconstructed log stockade, Fort Necessity, now stands, it is easy to imagine what his capitulation to the French on that third day of July, 1754, cost him.

"He returned to Williamsburg disheartened, but the house of burgesses passed a resolution of which he wrote, 'Nothing could give me and the officers under my command greater satisfaction than to receive the thanks of the house of burgesses, in so particular and public a manner, for our behavior in the late unsuccessful engagements with the French.'

"The scene of the Jumonville engagement can easily be reached today by U. S. Route 40 (the Old National Trail). About five miles east of Uniontown, Pa., on the summit of Laurel Ridge, a side road leads north from U. S. 40 to the battlefield, which is marked by several tablets and monuments. Reconstructed Fort Necessity stands a few miles farther east on U. S. Route 40. An old mansion standing near the rebuilt log stockade has been converted into a museum of Revolutionary relics."

Talks to parents

A Father's Job

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

Some mothers seem to take pride in their small boys' naughtiness, and can be heard in any group of mothers complaining, but with an undercurrent of complacency in their voices: "I just can't do anything with Tommy, he is so unmanageable."

The complaint is seldom made of daughters, probably because a mother prides herself on being able to manage another woman, no matter what her age or relationship.

The mothers who, consciously or unconsciously, shirk the task of bringing up their sons are often of the clinging-vine type who profess to like masterful men.

Their weapon with grown men is generally tears and complaints, and, since these are of no avail with small boys, they are powerless when faced by a determined son.

Secretly they feel that being "unmanageable" indicates character, and when the boys, having had free rein all during babyhood and early childhood, finally become the terrors of the community, the mother still refuses to face the facts. She attributes the misdemeanors to high spirits and excessive harshness on the part of the authorities.

When the father finally becomes conscious of the state of affairs, it is generally too late to begin the training and discipline which he should have made it his task to oversee from the outset.

There is no blinking the fact that the clining-vine type of woman is not mature any more than the blustering, bullying man. The more mature parent is in duty bound to recognize the incompetency of the other, and imperceptibly if possible, openly if necessary, do as much of the handling of the children as he or she can.

SAVINGS, LOAN GROUPS IN EXCELLENT POSITION

Savings and loan associations in New York state are entering 1934 in a strong position, reports George M. Bode, president of the New York State League of Savings and Loan Associations.

"The ratio of surplus to capital in the 300 associations of this state is even more favorable than it was during the boom days before the depression," Mr. Bode said. "Since the first of July we have increased our guaranty fund and undivided profits by more than 20 per cent. At the same time, there has been a marked decrease in borrowed money obligations of our associations.

"Our records show real improvement in the economic conditions of our 500,000 individual members, particularly during the last six months. They have reduced their share loans during the year by approximately 25 per cent and have increased their payments on mortgages nearly 30 per cent. General receipts are showing a consistent improvement."

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

By The Associated Press

Two Senors Get Angry.

Fortaleza, Ceara, Brazil—Passengers on a train near Lucrbe De Sella got a fright when the engineer and fireman got into a fight in the cabin car, jumped out to mix it on the solid ground and let the train run on without control.

After five miles, the train was halted by another member of the crew.

Engineer Antonio Severino and Fireman Francisco Carlos were arrested on charges of endangering the lives of the passengers.

Cousins Have Same Grandparents.

Denmark, N. Y.—Two infants of this village have much in common.

Their mothers are sisters who married brothers. Both infants are boys. They were born the same day, in the same house, and their weights differed by only a quarter-pound.

George Robert, eight pounds, was born to Robert and Winifred Cronk Twitchell, while Rodney William, seven and three-quarters pounds, was born to William and Margaret Cronk Twitchell.

The births occurred December 19, 1933, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Cronk, parents of the two mothers.

Repeal Note

Philadelphia - The Delaware county Hospital, in Upper Darby, has posted the following notice in the dispensary:

"From now on a charge of $5 will be made for application of the stomach pump on inebriates."

They used to do it for nothing.

Another Blue Eagle Revoked

Darlington, S. C.—They observe the NRA in Darlington county by not working overtime at stills long enough for officers to catch them.

Sheriff J. H. Coker and Deputy Colon King found NRA emblems emblazoned about the path leading to a big distillery. Among the emblems was a notice addressed to King:

"Go on in, Mr. King, tear it up but don't get us. We saw your tracks night before last and have left."

The officers destroyed the abandoned still—and "revoked" the NRA eagles.

She'll Get In Last The Next Time

Huntsville, Ont. — Mrs. R. J. Hutchinson of Huntsville had her first aeroplane ride today—without a pilot—and tonight she's not so enthusiastic about man's great invention.

"Just step into the cabin," said the pilot to Mrs. Hutchinson as the plane rested on the river ice here. Mrs. Hutchinson stepped into the cabin and the pilot stepped around to the propellor.

The pilot gave the propellor a twist, the plane engine roared, and away went Mrs. Hutchinson on her first aeroplane ride. The pilot went along too, clinging to one wing, but he only lasted for a few minutes, slipping to the ice when he lost his grip.

The plane took Mrs. Hutchinson for a few turns around the ice and then came to rest against the shore. She was not injured.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, minerals, water, oil, juices or anything or chewing gum and expect them to make you, suddenly, smart and merry and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a more permanent down feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a rotten, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for, enter a Little Liver Pills. Insist on the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Accept a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C.M.Co.

Business Girls Get Investment Talk

At their regular meeting last evening, the Business and Professional Girls' Club of the Y. W. C. A. had as its speaker, Miss Jane Van Etten, former general secretary of the association, and now with the Equitable Life Assurance Society in New York.

Miss Van Etten started her talk by humorously telling the trials of hunting a position in a big city, and then turned to her regular topic, which was investments. She stated that according to statistics, 82 per cent of people attain the age of 60 years without having made any adequate provision for a secured income. The time to provide for old age is during the days when one is regularly earning. Miss Van Etten stressed the value of a savings account for emergency and discussed the merits of both annuity and insurance. Each person, she said, must weigh his own case, as the suitable plan depends on many factors in each individual cast. The interest of those present was manifested by the number of questions that were asked following the talk.

During the meeting, Miss Jessie Goodsell reported on the Christmas service work, stating that 476 children were given toys, candy, and useful articles in the Christmas bags. The club was aided by the Prisma Society of the High School, and Young Married Women's Club, and by several individual contributions. Those assisting the members in distribution of the gifts were F. B. Matthews Co., Everett & Treadwell, Miss Kathleen Shurter, and Needes' Express.

Programs for the season from January until May were distributed by the program chairman, Miss Marion Phillips, and some very interesting meetings are in store. The speaker next week will be Dr. Frederic Holcomb.

Another guest of the club was Miss Katharine Olcott, a former member of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A., who gave a brief greeting to the club.

There are more automobiles in Los Angeles county than in all of Germany, according to the California Automobile Association.

NOTICE OF CHANGE IN ELECTRIC RATE SCHEDULE

In the "Rural Extensions" Rule, Section 17 of General Information, the provision relating to calculation of the number of customers per mile is revised to read as follows: "In the original computation of the number of customers per mile all customers who take service from the extension when completed will be considered. When additional customers are added to any existing extension the number of customers per mile will be recalculated based on the customers actually connected and the minimum charge redetermined in accordance with the schedule whenever the number of customers per mile has increased."

In Service Classification No. 2 Special Provision 2.4 relating to customer-owned generating plants, is revised so that the reduction in demand charge will apply when the customer agrees to operate his plant so as to reduce the maximum demand to not more than 10% of the highest demand established during the previous 12 months or to not more than 5 kilowatts, which ever is less.

The above changes become effective December 30, 1933.

Mrs. O'Connell Is Clerk of the Senate

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP).—New York state's first woman clerk of the senate, Mrs. Marguerite O'Connell of Albany today took over the duties of completing the unexpired term of her husband, the late Patrick H. O'Connell.

Mrs. O'Connell for many years has taken a keen interest in legislative affairs. She was a regular attendant at the Monday night sessions last winter while her husband was clerk and also had been a frequent visitor to legislative sessions in previous years.

"I have always enjoyed watching the legislature in action," she said, "particularly when there is a lively debate on. I look forward with pleasure to the activities of the present session, which appears likely to be an unusually interesting one."

The capitol is familiar ground to Mrs. O'Connell. For several years before her marriage she was employed in capitol offices, first in the secretary of state's office and later in the department of public works.

There was a tinge of sadness to her happiness at being chosen for the post yesterday for her visit to the capitol was the first since the close of the 1933 session, when she sat among the senate spectators while her husband presided at the clerk's desk.

Ropes of Women's Hair

The Higashi Hongawanji temple in Kyoto, Japan, contains a most interesting remnant of old Buddhist religiosity. It is the remains of 53 huge ropes—made of the hair of 30,000 women—that were used to lift heavy timbers in building a temple there 200 years ago.—Collier's Weekly.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.—Advt.

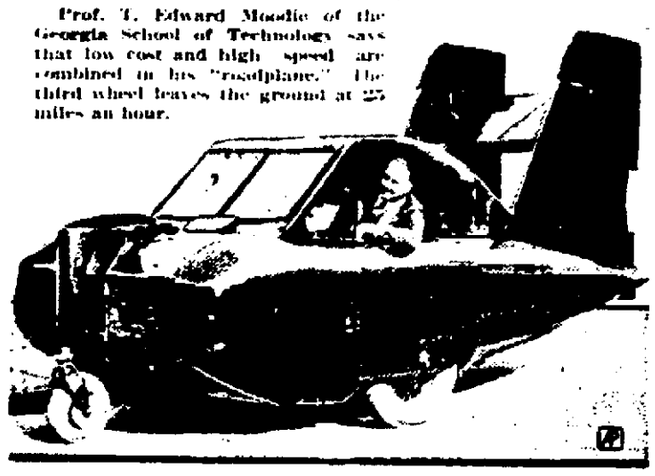
It Flies As It Runs—What? —'Roadplane,' Says Professor

Prof. T. Edward Moodie of the Georgia School of Technology says that low cost and high speed are combined in his "roadplane." The third wheel leaves the ground at 25 miles an hour.



Atlanta (AP).—A strange conveyance that runs like an automobile, steers like an airplane and looks like a whatnot is the hybrid born of experiments by Prof. T. Edward Moodie of the Daniel Guggenheim School of Aeronautics at Georgia Tech.

Designed along aerodynamic principles, it has been dubbed "roadplane" by the faculty members, who claim higher speed and inexpensive operation as its chief advantages over conventional automobiles.

Airplane-Like Body

Its appearance is that of a short, thick airplane body with a cabinlike enclosure of glass for two passengers. At the tail are air rudders that do all the steering at speed greater than 25 miles an hour.

Two wheels, one on each side of the cabin, bear most of the weight and furnish the propelling power through their connection with a motor in the forward portion.

A small third wheel bears a part of the weight at low speed, but it clears the ground when the vehicle travels faster than 25 miles an hour.

Wind-Steering Said O. K.

Professor Moodie has put the "roadplane" through 250 miles of road tests and found its wind-steering apparatus guided it perfectly at high speed. Traveling less than 25 miles an hour, he steers with brakes on the wheels.

Thus far, the 32-horsepower motor has not been pushed to its maximum speed. In several tests Moodie traveled at 60 miles an hour with the throttle nowhere near wide open. So far he doesn't know just how fast the thing would run.

Kingston: "Dinner at Eight." A four star performance by each of the numerous Hollywood celebrities in this remarkable drama, brilliant direction and and a human but tragic story, makes this motion picture one of the really big productions of the year, as well as one of the finest talking pictures yet brought to the public. Jean Harlow, who steals the picture from the other artists in a burst of unforgettable acting, John Barrymore, Marie Dressler, Lionel Barrymore, Lee Tracy, Edmund Lowe, Madge Evans, Wallace Beery, Karen Morley and Jean Hersholt are all in the amazing cast. The plot centers around a dinner party being given by an aspiring social climber, and she invites numerous important people to be present at eight p. m. to meet some friends of hers who are prominent socially in Europe. The reactions and actions of these guests who attend the dinner is a skillful study in human have, longing, bitterness and desire, and each character present at the dinner is disclosed as he or she really is, with his problems, weaknesses and troubles. Tragedy is the keynote of the plot, for the dreams of the woman who gives the party are frustrated, invited guests fail to appear and substitutions have to be made. All in all the party is a complete failure as a social success, but where it disappoints some, it proves beneficial to others. The greatness of the show lies in the acting, and the acting is excellent. Don't miss.

Orpheum: "The Important Witness" and "The Great Jasper." The first feature on the double bill concerns the solving of a crime, while the second show stars Richard Dix and features Edna May Oliver.

Broadway: Same.

Broadway: "Christopher Strong." Released early last spring, this show is one of the reasons that Katherine Hepburn found her way into the select company of the movie great. Her performance in a story that lacks depth, development and sympathetic treatment is so fine and real that the shortcomings of the story are forgotten in her superb work. The story concerns an illicit love affair. Miss Hepburn is an aviator in love with a married man. Rather than wreck three lives, she spins her plane in a death whirl in the closing moments of the picture.

Tomorrow

Kingston: Same.

Orpheum: "Best of Enemies" and "Fighting Cowboy." Frank Morgan, Buddy Rogers, Marian Nixon, Greta Nissen and Joseph Cawthorn are to be found in the first attraction, the story of two families who hate each other, and how the boy of one falls in love with the girl of the other family to make love triumph over all. Comedy, music and a different sort of plot makes this show good for an evening of fun. "Fighting Cowboy" as the title suggests, is a mild thriller with Buffalo Bill, Jr.

Broadway: "Vaudeville" and "The Day of Reckoning." The stage show features the "Midnight Revels," and three other acts with "Chapelle and Carlton," "Master Jay Bee" and "Gordon and Green." "Day of Reckoning" stars Richard Dix and features Madge Evans, Conway Tearle, Una Merkel and Stuart Erwin in a story that starts out in happy fashion with Mr. Dix married and happy. At the close of the show however, the scene is changed, tragedy rules over all, and the characters of the play are either dead or in prison. Add to this an unfaithful friend, and it is easy to see that the show isn't comedy drama. All this sorrow happens because the cashier of a bank embezzles some of the funds. At that, Mr. Dix and the capable cast surrounding him all turn in excellent performances. Sad but interesting drama.

Card Party

A card party will be held in the Mount Calvary Lutheran Church Hall in Ruby Friday evening, January 5. Games start at 8.

Running a piece of sapolio through the food grinder is one way to sharpen the grinder.

Steam will often remove the water ring left after the cleaning of a stain from a fabric.

Place a broom just outside the door, beside the mat, to brush snow from the feet: it saves work for the housewife.

The small child's jealousy of the new baby is often corrected by helping him to think of himself as the newcomer's protector rather than his rival.

Dried fruits such as dates, figs, raisins, or currants used in cooked breakfast cereals, muffins, salads, cakes, cookies and steamed breads add valuable minerals to the winter menu.

The frequently-used kitchen utensil is much easier to find when it hangs on the wall than when it lies on a shelf or in a drawer among other utensils. If it has no hook to hang by, a screw-eye from the five-and-ten is easy to attach.

Saugerties Liquor Store.

Saugerties, Jan. 4.—Mrs. Geraldine A. Mehrmann has leased the store in the Wilbur building on Partition street where a wine and liquor store will be conducted for off-premises consumption.

Child Swallows Toys.

Saugerties, Jan. 4.—Doris, daughter of Mrs. Helen Abbott of Livingston street, was taken quite ill when she swallowed some celluloid toys on Saturday afternoon. Dr. Sonking was called to attend her.

Saugerties Ice Harvest.

Saugerties, Jan. 4.—The Little Sawyer Ice Corporation has a large force of men taking in ice at the ice house on Malden avenue. This is the first in two years that ice has been harvested at this point.

The Broken Door

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"Is any one hurt? Is any one under the door?" Willy Nilly cried. As the door had fallen he was afraid some one might have been underneath it. "Is every one here?" he called nervously. It seemed as though his heart had stopped beating for a moment, but no one had been hurt. With the door off, however, no longer were Willy Nilly and the others safe from the storm. In fact, the snow came right in. It flew over the fireplace and melted with the warmth and put the fire out. Quickly the room became very chilly and the cold wind made them all shiver.

Willy Nilly was trying to put on the door, but he couldn't work very well, as every time he tried to get it back on its hinges the snow had piled so deep that he had to stop and shovel it away.

"I'll never get the door on," Willy Nilly groaned.

"We'll help," barked Rip.

Rip, Top Notch, the Rooster, Christopher Columbus Crow and the Ducks tried to push the snow out of the door with their feet. They worked and worked while their feet felt half frozen, but the snow came in more quickly than they could get it out.

Willy Nilly placed the door against the side wall, deciding he had better shovel, as the others were not making much headway.

All of them were soaking wet now with the snow, the room was cold, the wind shouted and blew and seemed to have gone on such a rampage that they would never have any luck against it.

And now the night was coming on.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—One of those stories that keep hope springing in the writer's breast lies behind the filming of the picture that will introduce Rosemary Ames to the movie going public.

For two years the manuscript had remained dust on the shelves of the scenario department, regarded as unsuitable for filming.

Then not long ago it was called to the attention of Sol Wurtzel, producer. That led to story discussions, and William Conselman was assigned to do an adaptation. One day Irving Cummings, the director, received a call from Wurtzel at Palm Springs, offering him the assignment—by now titled "Disillusion."

Game Vs. Story

Cummings read the adaptation and canceled plans to follow the football team of the Black Foxe military school, on which Irving, in his playing days, was famous in the big game. Cummings has had his heart set on the trip, and had turned down several other exciting offers for the sake of the game.

"But when I heard about this story," he says, "I couldn't say no!"

And this was the story that was on the shelf for two years.

Perhaps the tale loses some of its point when it appears that William Anthony McGuire is the author, that he was well paid for it at the time, and that the story being filmed is not exactly the story he wrote, but one based on a single scintillating idea therein.

Still, what happens to known writers' stories can happen to unknowns' —and authors have been observed to feed their hopes on literary occurrences less pertinent than this.

Enter, Rosemary

Rosemary Ames is a tall, slender girl, with carrot-colored hair. She looks like no typical movie actress. From Chicago, she spent several years on the stage in England, and came to Hollywood with a Fox contract.

She will probably be compared to Dietrich, to Hepburn, to Garbo. She may even be called an "exotic."

That suggestion causes her to smile. "An exotic—from Illinois?"

But she is hopeful, she says, that she can avoid being compared to anybody, play good roles well, and keep on getting good roles.

Her stage experience in England did not send her home with what is commonly called the "English accent."

"Water of Life"

The word "whisky" is derived from a Gaelic word meaning "water of life." Whisky is supposed to have originated in the monasteries of Europe somewhere about the Eleventh or Twelfth century and for a very long period was regarded only as a medicine and its composition unknown to the layman.

Even the Sweater Goes Formal

Copyright, 1934, by Fairchild

The square collar on the tweed knit sweater is removable. Dark green and biege are combined.

A deep bright blue is featured in a sweater that has a high boat neck with stripping in rose, beige and white across the shoulders and down the sleeves.

Suit Yourself, Day or Night

New York—Well, girls the fleet's in. Look at the shop windows if you don't believe that every one loves a sailor. Whether or not cruising has anything to do with all these nautical styles is beyond the point; the gob has us by the eyes and the goal is our heads too.

It's no news that suits are the big sportswear theme. Every southern wardrobe, not to mention California wardrobes too, have a smart array of suits, some sailor collared, or laced. Naturally there are others for the unimaginative landlubbers too.

There's a lot of blue about, some of it Chinese. Schiaparelli seems to have gone in wholeheartedly for Chinese blues. Molyneux has the blues too, runs the whole range from light to midnight. He especially likes blue for evening. Your nautically inclined young woman likes blue for day wear too, liberally sprayed with white.

There is nothing new in the idea of evening suits, but a good deal that is new in their interpretation. Lanvin goes in for them with considerable zest, making excellent use of lame and brocade as a contrast to heavy crepe or fine wool.

A favorite of the Paris season is an evening suit chez Lelong, who is having a big success this winter, by the way. It is a suit with floor length skirt entirely covered with paillettes and with light blouse, the original was with brown skirt, spangles and all, and pink top.

Should you happen to be the type who looks best in a suit, wear them around the clock. At the theatre, and in smart night clubs, one sees rather severely cut jackets of the loveliest fabrics, metallic and otherwise. Of course, a velvet skirt with spangled jacket is a popular choice.

Word from all the smart resorts is that suits are very much worn.

HOME IS THE SAILOR

Copyright, 1934, by Fairchild

The little suit from Mirande is of wool machine tricot close stitch with slight relief pattern, in a dark rich tone of dull red; and the little waist-length jacket is mounted on a belt of bright red leather, with similar leather straps across the tops of the pockets and gathering in the loose neckline of the gray tricot blouse.

Sounds Easy To Do

Paris — Hand-knitted jumpers which look medieval or peasant-like are a feature of one of the newer knit goods specialists, Marie Therese.

The jumpers are woolen, in closely knit, plain stitch, shaped into snugly fitting bodice just long enough to be held under a belt; the necklines are plain, and the medieval note is given by long, full sleeves of contrasting color. Similarly snug, short blouses with important sleeves are knitted in peasant designs of the old provinces of France.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

The hood collar has been living a number of different lives this fall and winter. Now with the coming of beach and ship life, it should be on the scene, as a good shield against the elements.

OUR DAILY PATTERN

What Little Girls Like.

9107—It is this sort of a dress that active little girls like. The smart plaits that hang so straight and proper below the attractive drop yoke, allow freedom in walking, running or romping. And the perky puffs have quite the right pouch above the band that holds them comfortably on the arm. These bands and the neat little collar and belt may be of contrasting material, or the belt may be of leather in a bright color.

Gingham with pique for contrast — the tiny bow also of pique—or sheer wool crepe with velvet is suggested for this model.

Designed in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. Size 8 if made as in the large view will require 2¾ yards of 35-inch material, for the dress, and ⅜ yard for collar, belt and sleeve bands in contrasting material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

[illegible] S. government [illegible] were [illegible] mixed. [illegible] about [illegible] dealings. [illegible] cents a [illegible] the [illegible] gain.

Late [illegible] points [illegible] were partially recovered after the budget message appeared on the tickers. The metals, including U. S. Smelting, American Smelting and Cerro de Pasco, were the first to come back. Losers of a point or more, however, included Allied Chemical, American Telephone, Auburn Auto, Chrysler, Continental Can, Du Pont, General Motors, Johns-Manville, Case, Westinghouse and Consolidated Gas.

Comment on the President's opening speech to congress was varied in the financial district but the consensus appeared to be that the markets, as a whole, were in about the same situation they were before congress convened and that a number of questions of interest to traders and investors still remain to be answered.

While some elements expressed disappointment that yesterday's message failed to go into details regarding the administration's monetary plans, most bankers were not surprised. It had already been pointed out in some quarters that, so far as dollar stabilization was concerned, there were too many foreign difficulties to permit of a "pegging" agreement at this time.

Notwithstanding the concentration on Washington, brokerage circles continued to watch trade and industry with considerable optimism. Retail reports reported that merchants were highly encouraged by the continued heavy consumer buying that manifested itself in the usually dull week after the Christmas holiday. Post-holiday offerings were said to be bringing a surprisingly active response.

FOURTEEN MORE CONDEMNED FOR AFGHAN KING'S MURDER

Kabul, Afghanistan, Jan. 4 (AP).—Fourteen additional persons have been condemned to death by a special court investigating the assassination of King Nadir Shar of Afghanistan.

Among the doomed are the father and two other relatives of Abdul Khaliq, who was executed last month when convicted of being the actual killer. An accomplice at that time was ordered to death, making a total of 16 who have received the death sentence in the case.

Latest French Upset Is 20-Million-Dollar City Pawnshop Fraud

The Manager is in Jail But The Mysterious Founder, Who Entertained "Bigshots" of Government Lavishly is Missing—Used Dalimier Circular.

Paris, Jan. 4 (AP).—France was shaken today by charges that ten to twenty-million-dollar frauds have been revealed by the collapse of the Credit Municipal Bank of Bayonne, which was the city's pawnshop, and the disappearance of its mysterious founder, Serge Stavisky.

The manager was jailed December 30 and a warrant was issued for Stavisky in connection with the recent unauthorized issuance of bonds.

Premier Camille Chautemps, with names high in French governmental quarters involved in the affair, declared Stavisky, who police said had many aliases, will be brought to justice and the case sifted thoroughly.

Insurance companies were reported by investigators to have been the principal victims of the sale of fraudulent pawnshop bonds, which Stavisky, operating under the name of Serge Alexandre—is charged with issuing for from three to ten times the pawnshop's legal limit of 50,000,000 francs (about $3,000,000).

Stavisky is accused by police of using in the sale of the bonds a circular in which Albert Dalimier, as public works minister, in the cabinet of former Premier Edouard Herriot, advised insurance companies they were legally permitted to invest in municipal pawnshops.

M. Dalimier issued a statement today explaining that the circular was a routine matter and that he never favored the Bayonne Bank or had relations with anybody connected with it.

Stavisky, a 47-year-old, Russian-born, naturalized French ex-jeweler, lived in a lordly manner, witnesses said, entertaining lavishly and cultivating friendships in official quarters.

Sterilization For Nazi Ten-Year-Olds

Will Not Take Action Against Those in Institutions—"Urgent" Cases Only in Near Future—Work Now On.

Berlin, Jan. 4 (AP).—Ten-year-old children and women as old as 50—men even older than that—are within the age range of Germany's new sterilization program, it was revealed today by Dr. Arthur Guett, eugenics expert in the ministry of the interior.

Dr. Guett said that when the present "waiting list" of incurables was disposed of, the work of the eugenics courts, set up under the national sterilization law which became effective January 1, would be confined mostly to children coming out of school.

Only "urgent" cases will be dealt with in the near future. He said the 280,000 incurable inmates of Germany's public institutions would not be sterilized; only those who are "at large."

A census of heriditary incurables was in full swing throughout the Reich, preliminary to operation of the law, he said.

Decision Reserved In Bove Action

There was no additional testimony this morning before Coroner W. N. Conner in the Charles Bove inquest and the matter was closed. Decision was reserved by Coroner Conner.

Mr. Bove was fatally injured on November 27 on Broadway near Pierpont street when he was struck by a car driven by John Millard of this city. An inquest was held several days ago before the coroner and at that time an adjournment was taken until today in order that any additional witnesses located might be sworn. No additional facts were learned and the inquest was closed.

"WEEK OF PRAYER" SERVICES ATTRACTING WIDE ATTENTION

The union "Week of Prayer" services being held for two weeks by the Clinton Avenue and St. James Churches are attracting wide attention and much interest is being shown. Last night the Rev. Charles E. Rignall delivered a very inspiring service on "The World's Greatest Need." Tonight at 7:30 the Rev. Frank H. Neal will deliver the sermon and on Friday night the Rev. George A. Shahan will deliver the sermon. There is plenty of gospel singing each night by the combined choirs of the two churches. The services this week are being held at the Clinton Avenue Church and next week will be held at St. James Church. The public is invited to attend.

The annual meeting of District No. 11 of the New York State Nurses' Association will be held Friday, January 19, at 2 p. m., at the Nurses' Home, St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh. Election of officers will take place.

All nurses who are holding application blanks for membership in the association are requested to send same to the secretary, Mrs. Ethel M. Fuller, R. N., 4 Wilson street, Newburgh, before the date of the meeting.

Graduated registered nurses who are not members are invited to attend this meeting as a guest of the association.

Shepherds to Play.

The Shepherds of Bethlehem will hold a public card party this evening in Mechanics' Hall on Henry street. Play starts at 8:15 o'clock.

Local Death Record

John J. Doolin, formerly of East Kingston, died today in New York city. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Tomorrow, a month's mind Mass of requiem will be offered in Eddyville Church at 7 a. m. for the repose of the soul of Mrs. Henry McNamee.

Carl Wismar died suddenly in Albany on Wednesday. The body will be brought to Kingston and funeral services held at Montrepose Cemetery Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Mr. Wismar is survived by his wife, Mrs. Augusta Wismar, and a son, Arthur Wismar of Buffalo.

John Schoonmaker, 55, of Saugerties, died Monday night at the Kingston Hospital following an abdominal operation. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Mildred Sanford, and a sister, Mrs. Grace Hanna. Funeral services Saturday afternoon from the late home in Saugerties with interment in Mountain View cemetery.

The funeral of Miss Elizabeth B. Guinan, who died on January 1, at Miami, Florida, will be held from the late residence in Port Ewen on Friday morning at 9 o'clock and thence to the Church of the Presentation where a solemn requiem Mass will be celebrated for the repose of her soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, this city.

Miss Julia Barry, daughter of the late Daniel J. and Margaret Buckley Barry, died in New York city Tuesday. She is survived by a brother, Daniel J. Barry. Funeral services will be held from the late home, 129 East 85th street, New York city, Friday morning at 7:30 o'clock and at St. Peter's Church in Rosendale at 11:15 o'clock, where a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul. Interment will be in St. Peter's Cemetery, Rosendale.

The funeral of Mrs. Minnie Maines was held Wednesday afternoon from her late home, 39 West Union street at 2:30 o'clock and was largely attended by her many relatives and friends. The Rev. O. E. Brandorff, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, officiated, and spoke words of praise relative to the true Christian life of the deceased and the love and devotion she always had for her family and friends. There were many beautiful floral pieces banked about the casket as it reposed in the home, showing how highly she was regarded by all who knew her. The bearers were members of the family and the interment was made in Montrepose cemetery where the Rev. Mr. Brandorff held the committal service as the body was laid at rest in the family plot.

The funeral of Mrs. Ellen Howard was held this morning from the funeral parlors of Jenson and Deegan, 113 Broadway, at 9 o'clock, and at 9:30 o'clock from St. Peter's Church, where a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. John P. Neumann, pastor. Her relatives and many friends were present in large numbers to pay their last respects to one who accepted with true Christian spirit and great fortitude the burden of being a hopeless invalid for a great many years. The staff of the Benedictine Hospital and a number of the nurses were present also at the services. During the Mass William Raible sang "Jesu Dulcis Memoria," and at the conclusion sang "Ave Maria." The bearers were members of the family and the interment was made in the family plot in Wiltwyck cemetery.

Jeremiah Avery, a well known and highly respected resident of South Rondout, died Wednesday evening following a long illness. He was at one time in business in this city, but of late years had been an employe of the Hercules Powder Co. until ill health forced him to retire. By his genial disposition and willingness to help friends in need, he had endeared himself to a very large circle of friends. He leaves two sons, Roswell and Martin Avery, of South Rondout, three daughters, Mrs. Bertram Johnson of Sleightsburgh, Mrs. Peter Mailia of South Rondout, and Mrs. Harry Atkins at West Park. Funeral from the home of his son, Roswell Avery, at South Rondout, Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and 9:30 at St. Peter's Church, where a requiem Mass will be offered for the repose of his soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Peter's cemetery.

Sophie Zyla Woinoski died suddenly at her home 9 Gross street early this morning. Mrs. Woinoski was the wife of the late Anthony Wionski, who died three years ago. Mr. Woinoski was sexton of Immaculate Conception Church up to the time of his death. Mrs. Woinoski was born in Poland and moved to this country 30 years ago making her residence in the downtown section of this city, where she made a host of friends. She was a devout member of Immaculate Conception Church and was active in church affairs. She was a member of the Holy Rosary Society of Immaculate Conception Church and the society will meet at her late home Sunday evening at 8 o'clock to recite the Rosary. She was also a member of the St. Michaels Slovish Society. She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Catherine Houghtaling, Mary, Frances and Veronica Woinoski, and six sons, Frank, Walter, Joseph, Stanley, Casmier and John Woinoski, all of this city. Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral from her late home 9 Gross street, Monday morning, January 8, at 9 o'clock and at 9:30 o'clock at Immaculate Conception Church where a solemn high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul. Interment will be in the family plot in Mt. Calvary cemetery.

HEIRS TO BELGIAN THRONE EXPECT THIRD CHILD'S BIRTH.

Brussels, Jan. 4 (AP).—The Duke and Duchess of Brabant, heirs to the throne of Belgium, expect the birth of a third child this spring.

The Duke, Prince Leopold, and his wife, the former Princess Astrid of Sweden, were married in 1926. Their children at present are the six-year-old Princess Josephine and the three-year-old Prince Baudouin.

Airdrome of Skies Gets Battle Practice Today

Macon Theoretically Destroyed Three Times in First War Maneuver—Being Used As Scouting Unit For Dreadnaughts.

With the U. S. fleet, off Southern California coast, Jan. 4 (AP).—The Navy's big airdrome of the skies—the U. S. S. Macon—went into its second battle practice today.

The first time the world's newest and largest dirigible took to sea with the fleet it was theoretically destroyed three times. Twice it barged through the clouds into the range of the guns of the light and heavy cruisers, and then it was trapped by a swarm of destroying air squadrons.

Commander Alger H. Dresel, its skipper, today was under orders to be wary of superior air forces. The big bag flew as a scouting unit for the main power of Uncle Sam's Navy, the battle force of dreadnaughts, supplemented by aircraft carried, and destroyer squadrons, under the command of admiral Joseph M. Reeves.

An opposing force was led by Vice Admiral Frank M. Brumby, commander of the scouting force, the fast striking armada of cruisers, destroyers, submarines and aircraft squadrons, aboard one of the big carriers.

More than a hundred fighting ships formed the two opposing fleets spread over an area 100 miles square, south of Catalina Island and west of San Diego.

SALVATION ARMY TO CONDUCT MEETING.

The Salvation Army friends, under the leadership of Captain Charron and Lieutenant Moulton, will conduct the service at the First Dutch prayer meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock. They bring with them their staff band, which is at present an unusually strong one. The army will be in complete charge both as to music and speaking. It will be a profitable meeting to all interested friends. The hour is from 7:30 to 8:30. The monthly meeting of the consistory will be postponed from this evening to next Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. sharp.

NO MORE BOMBINGS UNLESS— CHINESE TODAY ASSURE U. S.

Peiping, Jan. 4 (AP).—The Chinese government assured the United States, Japan and other powers having Nationals in revolt-wracked Fukien province today that Nationalist forces will refrain from further bombing attacks on Foochow unless military exigencies demand.

Foochow is the capital of the province and a center of the recently-organized revolt against the Nationalist government.

Dole Resigns Today As NRA Food Chief

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP).—James S. Dole, chief of the food section of the farm administration, resigned today, effective January 10.

Dole, a Honolulu manufacturer, for the past six months has been in charge of drawing up codes concerned with food processing in the farm administration.

His resignation is the latest of a series resulting from the withdrawal of George N. Peek as farm administrator to head President Roosevelt's special committee on foreign exports.

Dr. Gates Ill; No Meeting.

Owing to the illness of the Rev. Goodrich Gates, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, the usual Thursday evening prayer service at the church will not be held this evening.

Poems of Beauty Selected by BYRNE BROS.

THE HUMAN SEASONS
By John Keats

Four seasons fill the measure of the year;
There are four seasons in the mind of Man:
He has his lusty Spring, when fancy clear
Takes in all beauty with an easy span:
He has his Summer, when luxuriously
Spring's honeyed cud of youthful thought he loves
To reason, and in reasoning, grow wise;
Then comes his Autumn, cold and clear and high
His winter eats heaven: quiet as a stone
His soul has in its Autumn, when his wings
He furleth close; contented so to look
On mists in idleness — to let fair things
Pass by unheeded as a threshold brook—
He has his Winter too of cold inaction,
The sure his soul through the icy season.

The choice of one of the enduring memorials to be had here reflects your desire to contribute a permanent mark of respect to the memory of the deceased.

Eventful Summer Looked For In Golf This Year

By HERBERT B. JAQUES

Boston, Jan. 5 (AP)—[illegible] of 1933 [illegible] prices and [illegible] will influence the [illegible] of 1933.

For example [illegible] sponsor Bobby Jones [illegible] won the title as [illegible] amateur. He [illegible] of seasoned players and [illegible] rival. Ralph Guldahl [illegible] professional little known [illegible] at that time. What a battle [illegible] the Open will be next summer! [illegible] veterans will be out for revenge [illegible] younger stars will be [illegible] their chances and the foreign [illegible] tours, including Goodman [illegible] out to repeat Johnny's great [illegible] umph.

I look for an event [illegible] with interest and excitement from the first to the last round at Merion.

A Hot Skirmish

Next, consider the pictures we shall see at the Amateur championship to be played over the historic old course of the Country Club at Brookline where Francis Ouimet made golf history in 1913. Veterans and youths alike will strive as never before to win that event.

Stirred by the remarkable record of Ouimet in the 1931 Amateur, by 55-year-old Michael Scott in last year's British Amateur and by Mr. Marston's play at Kenwood, the old guard will be on the war path. Just as eager, the younger generation will display its brilliant golf without fear or favor and fight to the last putt to win the 1934 crown now reposing on George Dunlap's head.

No! only do I anticipate a championship that will test skill and nerve to the utmost, but one in which competitive spirit will be rekindled and burn to new heights.

Events of Wide Interest

On the golf calendar of 1934 we have many events replete with interest. Our amateurs will go abroad to meet a team in Great Britain that is determined to win its first Walker Cup and bolster the morale of British amateur golf. Late in the fall the British and American women teams will play for the Curtis Cup in this country. The strong British team will be out to avenge its 1932 defeat and will later play in our Women's National Championship.

These events, added to the National championships and the entry of Bob Jones in the Augusta Open in March will make 1934 one of the most colorful and exciting competitive seasons we have ever had.

Improvement for Ladies

I am strongly of the opinion that in the next 10 years we shall see a marked improvement in the play of our woman golfers. Today there are a few who stand head and shoulders above the others. There is a noticeable increase in the serious interest girls under 20 years of age are taking in the game and this is general throughout the country. It will take but a few years to bear fruit and is unmistakable evidence of a higher standard in women's golf.

To the golfers of America I send my cordial best wishes for a happy and successful new year. May the spirit of true sportsmanship bring to them its full reward of satisfaction.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor

[illegible] matters about [illegible] and [illegible] has should [illegible] settle down [illegible] the situation of Mr. [illegible] will leave as head coach of Cornell [illegible]

[illegible] bad luck, the [illegible] Mr. Dobie's pupils acquit [illegible] with neatness and [illegible] against their last two [illegible] Dartmouth and Pennsylvania [illegible] things that could be heard [illegible] to a polite whisper [illegible] have disappeared entirely [illegible] Mr. Dobie will continue [illegible] head coach for an indefinite [illegible] period subject no doubt to [illegible] intermittent rumblings.

During the season the Cornell Daily Sun, student daily, received and printed letters for a time, commenting on or criticizing the football situation. Some of the letters were signed "Constant Reader," which, so the story goes, prompted the following remark from Mr. Dobie one afternoon after the freshman team had taken a bad beating from the third varsity: "There'll be a lot of Constant Readers next fall."

Blight of '29

Cornell, like its one-time gridiron rival, Yale, seems to have been affected athletically by being nominated and elected to membership in the "lily white" register of the Carnegie Foundation's noted Bulletin 23, published in October, 1929—a date remembered as painfully in Wall street as in the collegiate chancelleries.

These and some score of colleges, all told, were held up as models in athletic behavior. They did not subsidize or recruit, said the Carnegie report. The intimation was that they had cleaned house, taken the "turn to the right" and that it was hoped they would live up to all the nice things said about them.

The idea seemed to be that some species of fugitive activity, like bootlegging, was involved in the efforts of an earnest alumnus to obtain a scholarship for a deserving prep school star or otherwise persuade and help him to enlist at the old alma mater. Naturally, what the Carnegie Report viewed with alarm were the extreme methods employed at times to recruit and subsidize college athletics, but the effect was to blow the whistle on any and all activities of the sort.

In some respects the deflation of college football was and is much to be desired. Nevertheless the four-year period since the Carnegie Report and old man Depression struck simultaneous blows has shown the fallacy of many so-called reform measures. They have not altered the fact that the country's foremost amateur sport remains likewise the biggest intercollegiate business. The aim in both is to get the best results.

He's The Man

Elmer Layden, writes Bill Hart from Morgantown, "had three teams at Duquesne this fall, one just about as good as the other. The fact that Pitt and Carnegie Tech are located in the same city has served to help, not hinder Duquesne's rise, through the fact that the Duke supporters rallied to face a common foe. . . . Not to my knowledge have the Dukes failed to get their share of raw material from high and prep schools. . . .The man overlooked in praising Duquesne for its sensational rise is John D. Holahan, graduate manager. He is the strong, silent man behind the guns."

Smallest of Fishes

A tiny goby, native to the Philippine Islands, is said to be not only the smallest of fishes but the smallest of all known vertebrates. In spite of their diminutive size, an adult fish being but half an inch long and exceedingly light in weight, these gobies are relished as food. The favorite method of serving them is to mix great numbers of them into a batter which is then baked in the form of little cakes.

Tremendous Impetus For Boxing During '34, Says Association Head

By EDWARD C. FOSTER

(President, National Boxing Association)

Providence, R. I., Jan. 5 (AP)—I think that during 1934, boxing of all kinds will receive a tremendous impetus. All that is really needed is the close cooperation, and honest, fair dealings by the promoters and boxers. The boxer, on his part, must realize that the promoter cannot pay excessive prices for services and be able to exist. This realization by the boxer, with honest endeavor to deliver his best efforts, will result in boxing being placed again on the high level which it has enjoyed in past years.

Must Deliver the Goods

Both boxers and their managers have been brought face to face with the fact that in order to prosper they must deliver the goods. I believe this has finally made an impression on the boxers, and that in the future the quality of the contests will be very much improved, for the reason that the promoters realize that the general public is very much more alive to what constitutes a good boxing contest and the promoter will insist even more strongly than in the past that the boxers render their best services or—no employment.

Boxing commissions all over the country should at once put their foot down firmly on managers and promoters who endeavor to stage "junior championship" contests. These "junior championships" have no standing whatever in professional boxing. Certainly the public has suffered enough from the exploiters in the boxing game in the past and it is high time a stand against these contests was taken and that they be entirely eliminated.

Stand on Amateurs

I believe that the time is ripe for the Amateur Athletic Union, through its boxing division, to take some stand on just how long a boy may compete in the amateur ranks. Boys who go in for amateur boxing develop very fast these days, having the advantage of well equipped gymnasiums and competent instructors, and they become most proficient in a very short period of time.

The interscholastic leagues in most states have an age limit. The Intercollegiate Association has a three-year period during which an athlete may play on varsity teams. Why not some such ruling governing amateur boxing.

It is my contention that when a boy has boxed three years with the amateurs he should either quit the game or turn professional. The real objective of amateur boxing is not to develop professional prizefighters but rather to fit the boys for the real battle of life which lies before them, instilling in them the idea of honest contest and fair play.

The Leonids

The leonids are meteors which appear to radiate from the constellation Leo in the northeastern sky each year. They are supposedly part of a meteoric swarm that reaches spectacular proportions every 33 years. The largest displays occurred in 1833 and 1866, when the earth crossed the orbit of the leonids and millions of "shooting stars" lighted up the sky in a brilliant display.

Ruth Plans for His Twenty-First Seas

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—Take other salary cut this year? Play another full season? quite, but at least 100 games again? Not if he can avoid baseball? Never as long as a job and money in it.

Babe Ruth is quite willing to cuss these and other matters of sonal and public interest as makes his plans for the and his twenty-first season American League. Scaling says he is in better shape than spring but no one knows better the Babe that his playing days mostly behind him. The idea he must soon leave the active ing list no longer worries him.

Far from being alarmed over prospect of further downward ming of his salary, which slid $75,000 to $52,000 last year, anticipates another reduction, long as it is "a reasonable cut not a major operation." $35,000 or $40,000 be accepta He'd rather not say until he Heard from "Jake"—Colonel pert, the owner of the Yankees.

Behind all this outward chalance about the future, if cations can be accepted for what appear worth, lies the idea that Ruth will manage the Yankees.

He explains quite forcefully he turned down a proposition by colonel to manage the Newark this year, demanding to know he could learn anything more baseball by going back to the leagues after 20 years in the show.

Alcohol No Good for Cancer Cure, Report

Idea Born of Dry Era Is Scratched Off List Today—Was Tried on Cancerous Mice, Who While Not Relieved, Were Constantly Intoxicated.

Buffalo, Jan. 4.—P.—An idea born during the dry era that pure "ethyl," otherwise known as "drinking alcohol," might be good medicine for cancer, was scratched off the scientific records today.

A lengthy test of the reputed curative powers of alcohol made upon cancerous mice, was reported today in the American Journal of Cancer by Dr. Millard C. Marsh, of the State Institute for the Study of Malignant Diseases, located at Buffalo.

These Buffalo mice proved to be a tough breed, very handy for the liquor tests. They drank freely of 10 per cent alcohol. At 15 per cent they hesitated, and at 20 per cent turned up their noses.

So a set of eight of them was allowed to drink itself to death on the 10 per cent alcohol that being the only liquid taken.

The mice lived for from two weeks to two months each. The latter period is equivalent to several years of a human life. But in no instance was a single cancer sufferer benefited.

Four other mice were kept continuously drunk on daily doses of alcohol equivalent to a man drinking a pint of pure alcohol daily. One mouse died. In the other three the tumors continued to grow. Comment is made that the marvel is the mice withstood such an alcohol onslaught.

Mrs. Elmer Osterhoudt spent Friday with Mrs. Leon Van Aken.

The Misses Theresa and Dorothy Davis, Mrs. Herbert A. Davis and Mrs. Leon Van Aken spent Tuesday p. m. with Mrs. Elmer Osterhoudt at Pine Bush.

The Christmas pageant, "He Came to Bethlehem," given by the young people and the Christmas entertainment given by the junior and primary classes were well rendered and much enjoyed by all. The church was filled to capacity, some leaving on account of no room. The choir sang several Christmas selections. Much credit is being received by everyone who helped in any way. There was a large Christmas tree surrounded by gifts, candy and oranges for all members of the Sunday School and oranges for all visiting children. Santa Claus arrived just in time to distribute the gifts. The program closed with a Merry Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year to all.

Remarkable Yet Strange Concert

Those who attended the second of this season's Community Concerts at the High School auditorium Wednesday evening, listened to one of the most remarkable yet strange concerts ever heard in Kingston. Sylvia Lent, the young American violinist, was the soloist and accompanist was Ladislas Helfenbein, pianist.

Tall and slender with rather a piquant face that wore a serious unemotional and unconcerned expression, the young violinist stood with the motionless poise that was an outstanding characteristic of the great Camilo Urso's appearances. But there the resemblance stopped.

There flowed from Miss Lent's bow and finger tips a silvery stream of perfect tone, apparently effortlessly produced. To all appearing difficult technique meant nothing to Miss Lent, but at the same time, the composer thought and intent meant nothing either. It was as though Miss Lent was playing with practically perfect technique and intonation under the influence of some extraneous hypnotic power, and by the time she had played the last notes of Cesar-Franck's Sonata in A major for violin and piano, even the audience fell under the spell of the hypnotic music. All this was no pose on the part of the young artist but seemed a perfectly natural part of her almost negative personality. It seemed all to be something beyond her volition except as past acts of will infinitely repeated became automatic. Once or twice in the Sonata Miss Lent went below the surface and there was almost a thrill of emotion in the music, but it lasted but a few measures.

Just before the intermission Mr. Helfenbein played a Brahms Intermezzo, opus 118, No. 6 and a Liszt Etude in F minor, No. 10. As an encore he played the Chopin Waltz in A flat.

Miss Lent's technique seemed to become increasingly delicate in her second group of numbers. There was something weird in her playing of "White Peacock," by Griffes which had been especially arranged for the young artist, who played Chaminade's "Spanish Serenade" as an encore. It proved to be one of the most human, and enjoyable numbers of the evening.

There were times in the "Introduction and Rondo" by Vieuxtemps when it seemed as though the soloist would break through the controlling influence of whatever sort it might be and give her audience something of herself in her music, but the promise was not fulfilled. However the number was so thoroughly enjoyed for its perfection of technique and purity of tone as to call forth unstinted applause, and Miss Lent, responded with the same serious detachment and played incomparably "The Flight of the Bumble Bee," by Rimsky-Korsakov.

Those who heard Miss Lent last evening will watch with keen interest in many ways her future accomplishments. As we are no longer living in the days of Svengali, one can but feel that there will come to this talented young violinist some great awakening that will breathe a soul into the perfect body of her technical skill, without which that body is entirely without life and its magnetic influence upon others. One cannot easily forget either Sylvia Lent or her violin music of today nor can they fail to watch for her future success.

The last of the Community Concerts will be held on February 13.

4-H Club, Boy Scouts To Give Entertainment

Woodstock, Jan. 4.—Saturday evening the Woodstock 4-H Club together with the Boy Scouts of Troop 34 will combine forces and give an entertainment starting at eight o'clock in the basement of the Dutch Reformed Church.

There will be a three-act playlet entitled, "Three Christmas Eves." In addition there will be music and acts fitting the occasion. The purpose of the entertainment is to raise funds to enable the respective organizations to attend their camps in a full body next summer.

The cast of the playlet is as follows: Mr. Rich, Carson Hutchens; Mrs. Rich, Colinda Gaynor; Isabelle, Alma Stoutenburg; Mr. Little, Milton Houst; Jack, William Breen; Mrs. Little, Alice Compton; Martha, Muriel Peacock; Billy, Gregory Lindin; Jean, Doris Pearcock; Mr. Middleton, George Compton; Mrs. Middleton, Mary Adeline Summers; Tom, Ray Compton; Elizabeth, Alice Compton; Bob, William Gaynor; Margaret, Regina Riley. The stage manager will be Carl Sellenbeck. Victor Schroeder will entertain with his banjo. Many surprises will be unearthed.

The scout master is Louis Lewis, the 4-H leader is Mrs. Margaret Gaynor.

CAROL-SINGING PROGRAMS AT TUBERCULOSIS HOSPITAL

Besides the regular Christmas entertainment at the Tuberculosis Hospital, a story about which has appeared in The Freeman, there were other greatly enjoyed carol-singing programs given. The local troops of the Girl Scouts of America gave a carol program. There was the singing of carols by the choir of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church; by the choir of Immanuel Lutheran Church, the Rev. F. L. Witte, pastor; and by the choir of Trinity Lutheran Church, the Rev. W. H. Pretzsch, pastor. There is no form of entertainment at the Christmastide more enjoyed and appreciated by the patients at the hospital than the singing of Christmas carols.

FIRST DUTCH SCOUTS HELD PARTY DECEMBER 29

On Friday, December 29, the annual Christmas party of Scout Troop 12 was held at the First Dutch Church. Although many parents were prevented from coming due to the cold weather, fair numbers were in attendance. Stunts were given by the patrols. Gifts were presented to several men who by their services have greatly aided in the advancement of the organization. Several novel stunts were introduced and participated in by the Scouts. One of these was attempted by two of the troop committeemen who after several gallant tries in order to feed each other while blindfolded, succeeded in mastering the art. Also at the party the Troop Hill Billy Band made its premier performance. Two Scouts were given the offices of assistans scoutmaster and senior patrol leader. Refreshments were served after which the affair was ended.
